

Industries references for microbiological Simplex sampling systems

The microbiological Simplex sampling systems have been developed for the food industry.

It started more than 30 years ago in the brewing industry.

Meanwhile, the samplers in many other industries coveted tools for production.

Microbiological and chemical-technical use in all areas in:

Breweries,
Wineries,
Dairies,
Mineral water fountain,
Juice maker,
Lemonade manufacturers,
Cocoa and chocolate industry,
Supply and sewage,
Edible oils,
Extracts of coffee,

Other sample use in the areas of:

Shampoo manufacturers,
Steel industry - coal emission in the industrial water sector,
Radioactively contaminated water,